KATA KIUNO BY MUSTAFA ABBAS

MANATI BY MUSTAFA ABBAS

Medium: Photograph

A young boy stands poised, ready to launch a projectile with his catapult (Manati). With one eye tightly closed, he focuses intensely on his target. The camera creatively frames his face through the 'Y' shape of the drawn-back catapult, while the shadow of the catapult adds depth and intensity to his expression. The scene captures a moment of concentrated anticipation and readiness.

MDAKO BY MUSTAFA ABBAS

Medium: Photograph

This captivating black-and-white photograph features a girl seated on a textured surface, likely a patch of earth, her face lit with awe and anticipation as she plays the game of 12 stones (Mdako). Her extended hand is frozen mid-throw, while 12 vividly colored stones, painted in different hues, stand out against the monochromatic backdrop. The stones, appearing to defy gravity, create a magical focal point as they reach the peak of their ascent. Soft lighting and simple clothing enhance the timeless and universal feel of the image.

KOMBOLELA

BY MUSTAFA ABBAS

Medium: Photograph

In the evocative photograph titled "Kombolela" (68cm x 45cm), a young boy plays hide and seek, standing with his forehead pressed against a wall. His small hands cover his face, capturing a moment of innocence and anticipation. The wall, painted with colorful numbers 1 through 10 in various styles, contrasts with the boy's simple attire. The shot, taken from behind, highlights the child's posture of readiness and transforms the vibrant wall into a dynamic focal point.

MY DREAM

BY STEPHEN MCHOMVU

Medium: Charcoal and pastels on canvas childhood dreams are often dismissed as childish, as they can be difficult to achieve without effort. Many children have dreams they believe will be easy to fulfill, but as they grow up, those dreams may change due to their environment and economic challenges. However, some people manage to achieve their dreams. The child in the drawing represents one of these dreamers, illustrating their desire to own a luxury car, expressing that ambition through art.

DEAR GOD

BY GEORGE NYANDICHIE

Medium: Oil and ink on canvas

Here and now before earth and sky, we stand! we feel the blessing of your infinite love in our bones, in our blood, in our breath and in our heart.

We open our eyes to see beyond and remember what we have seen before. We open our ears to hear what we could not hear before.

Beyond limitation, beyond the beyond we feel a new story emerging from ourselves and coming out into our lucid bodies as waves of love remind us of who we really are. Dissolve us into what we have always meant to be and the layers between us and who we meant to be fade away and suddenly we realize we are all that we dreamed we could be.

To see without eyes to walk without feet and to fly without wings.

GIZA II

BY ARNOLD MAMUYA

Medium: Charcoal and pencil on manila paper

When confronted by darkness, choose light. Instead of cursing the shadows, why not light a candle? You have the power to bring light into the world. Without darkness, how would you truly appreciate the brightness of better days? Darkness and light exist in balance—without one, the other wouldn't shine as brightly. No matter how overwhelming the darkness may seem, stay strong and remember that brighter days are always ahead. Darkness offers a chance to prove your resilience, preparing you to face tomorrow's challenges with renewed strength. And when the darkness tempts you to despair, remind yourself that there is always hope. God's light is stronger than any darkness.

LION CUB

BY NATHAN EMMANUEL

Medium: Acrylics on Canvas

A beautiful lion cub resting in a tree during a stunning morning sunrise. I love lion cubs for their playful nature, as they spend most of their day engaging in what, for them, is serious business. They play by stalking one another, playing hide-and-seek, and wrestling. Through these playful activities, they develop essential skills they'll need later in life when they must hunt for themselves.

YOUNG BY HEDWIGA TAIRO

Medium: Acrylics on Canvas

This piece is a reminder of when we were young and free and able to express our emotions without fear of judgement. In my view, nurturing our emotional wellbeing is invaluable; it should be cherished and approached with love, devoid of prejudice or judgement. A healthy state of mind not only fosters personal success but contributes to the happiness and development of a thriving individual and nation.
